M'CURDY MAKES SALARY CUT TO ONLY $75,000

President Of The National Life Starts In To Reduce The Running Expenses.

THE AGENTS WILLING TO TAKE LOSS

Son And Son-In-Law Offer To Change Contracts To Conform With Views Of The Committee Making The Investigation.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]

New York, Nov. 17—Members of the legislative insurance investigating committee this morning in commenting upon the sweeping changes made by the Mutual Life Co., yesterday were of the opinion that it was a complete confession by the officers of the state of affairs existing in the company. Committeemen were of the opinion that the companies would make no change unless so directed by new legislation. Frank B. Jordan, son of Thomas D. Jordan, former comptroller of the Equitable, was called to the stand this morning and asked concerning the whereabouts of his father. He did not know. Samuel S. McCurdy, assistant registrar of the Equitable, testified as to salaries and expenses. A letter from Hill to Alexander produced a laugh. The postcript read: "Feel good; congress has adjourned and the country is safe." When the legislature adjourns the state will be safe."

His Vouchers

Mr. McCurdy showed vouchers for money paid for "legal expenses." In the number were some for a thousand dollars each paid to various political leaders in different states. One payment of nearly three thousand dollars was to Robert Luscum of Milwaukee for legal services in Wisconsin. One of a thousand was to S. S. Olds of Lansing, Michigan, for legal services before the Michigan legislature.

More Legal Expenses.

McCurdy spoke of the money spent for legal expenses in three years following the long fight in 1895 with Andrew J. Clune, the state insurance commissioner of California. He told how he paid two hundred and fifty dollars monthly to Clune's brother through Judge Pilsbury. Hughes questioned him along the line caused by the inference to be drawn that Clune's brother was paid because Clune had made demands which, if obeyed, would drive the company from that state. McCurdy said the Mutual and the New York Life also paid Clune's brother the same. McCurdy is not related to Richard A. McCurdy. He said that former Governor Budd of California came to New York to make an investigation. He spent all the time with the company's attorney from California.

Tarbell's Testimony

Gage E. Tarbell, the second vice-president of the Equitable and in charge of the general agents, was called. He participated in two other syndicates and did not know the Equitable was in. Until last winter he had nothing to do with stock purchases. Depew was then called. He was questioned as regards letters to officials, saying "A friend was around again" and "A friend up the river is getting cantankerous and wants to know—you know." Depew said he did not recall who was meant, but said it was not a legislator nor politician.

The Knell of McCurdyism

New York believes that at last the knell of McCurdyism in the Mutual Life Insurance Company was sounded Thursday, when the special committee, composed of Stuyvesant Fish, William H. Truesdale and John W. Auchincloss, appointed to investigate the evils of the management of the corporation, made a preliminary report at a special meeting of the board of trustees.

The report contained three communications of peculiar interest.

One was from President McCurdy, saying that if his salary of $150,000 is too large, in the opinion of the committee, he willingly would accept any reduction it might see fit to make.

The second communication was from President McCurdy's son, Robert H. McCurdy, general manager of the company, in which he said that if the committee considered his emoluments on foreign business too large he would accept any reduction it saw fit to make.

Agents Agree to Cut.

The third was from Charles M. Raymond & Co., of which Louis A. Thebaud, son-in-law of President McCurdy, is the dominant partner. Thebaud received $147,000 in 1904 as his share of the high commissions given Raymond & Co. The firm wrote the committee they would agree to accept any reasonable change in their contract that the committee might see fit to make.

The committee directed President McCurdy to summon to this city Andrew C. Fields, the legislative agent of the Mutual, who spent such immense sums of the policy holders' money without giving any detailed statement of disbursements or any explanation that would show why the expenditures were made. It also directed that the legislative house maintained at Albany for the use of Fields at once be abandoned, and that the whole management of the supply department, of which Fields was the head, to be reorganized and its personnel changed.

Not only was every recommendation of the committee adopted, but President McCurdy voluntarily cut his salary of $150,000 a year in half, reducing it to $75,000. He also announced that other reductions in the salaries of the principal executive officers had been made, which, with his, would amount in all to $145,000 to $150,000 a year.

Policy One of Retrenchment.

President McCurdy in his address to the trustees outlined a policy of retrenchment the executive officers had decided upon. He declared he did not know what was contained in the report of the special investigating committee, and he did not desire to forestall anything it might do, for he would abide by its decision.

He said that during the forty-five years he had been in the service of the Mutual, the company had grown until it stands unrivaled for the magnitude of its assets. Whatever criticism may have been made of features of its administration, he declared the fact remains that no policy holder of the company need ever entertain the shadow of a doubt that his policy, with all accretions, will be paid in full when due.

Mr. McCurdy said the merit in the company's upbuilding was not his alone. All the officers had labored together.

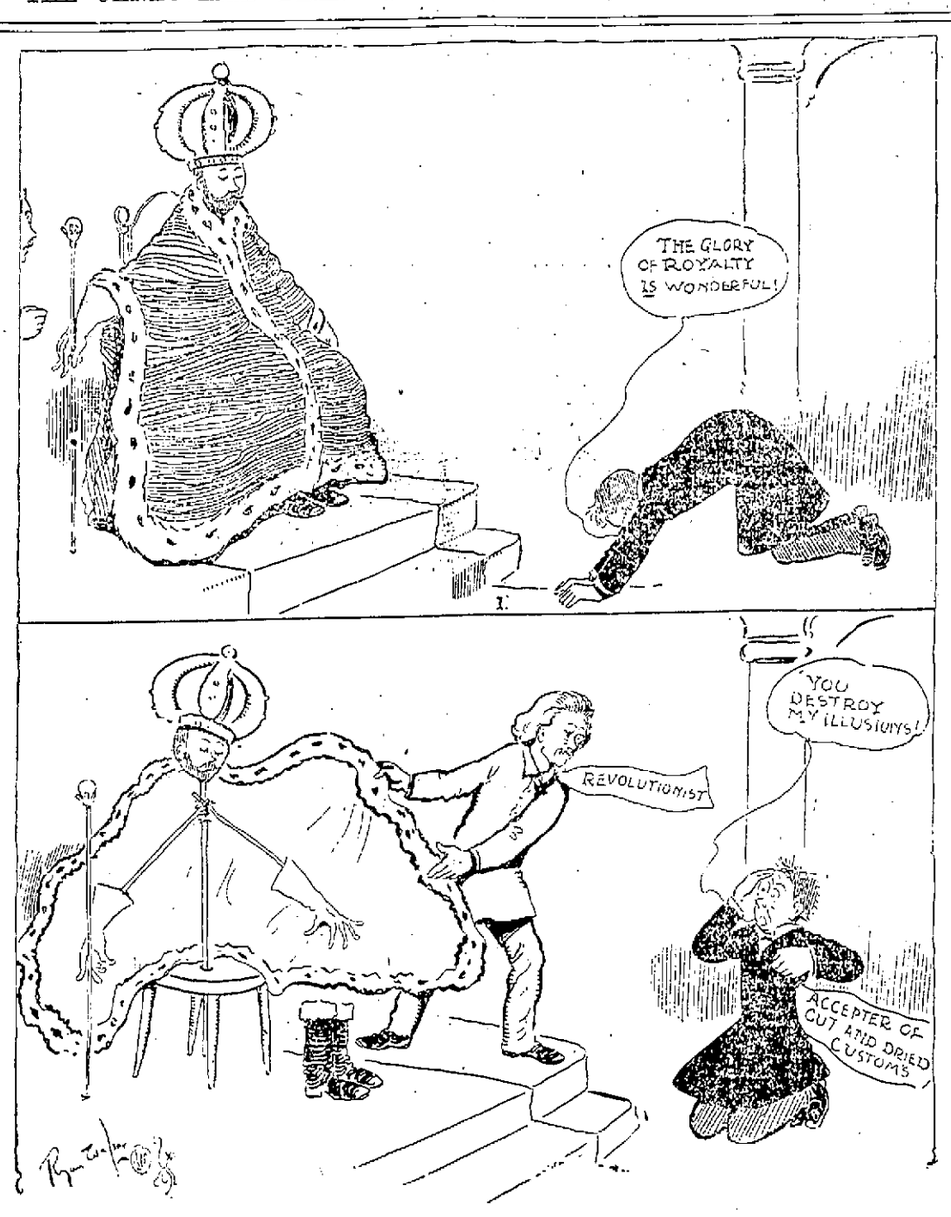

He was aware, he said, that the management had been subjected to severe criticism and that the company's business had suffered to a great extent.

All Criticism Not Deserved.

"I am far from admitting," he continued, "that all criticism which has been made is just or deserved, but, on the other hand, I am not so blind as not to know that a public opinion unfavorable to the administration has been created, and that its persistence must continue to work harm to the business of the company."

The principal reform demanded was the reduction in the cost of insurance. He had set an example in retrenchment by asking that his salary be cut in half. Commission agencies will be changed to a salary basis and legislative expenses will be done away with, policy holders' protective committees taking the place of salaried legal agents. His plans call for a reduction of expense in every branch of the business. In conclusion he said:

"Of one thing I feel certain, that no officer or trustee of this company has made any unlawful profit out of his office."

In Russia it will be discovered that the bowed-down-to-royalty is merely a matter of clothes and a gilt crown.

New York consumes more turkeys than any other city in the United States. The birds are in good condition and there is little likelihood that the price will be as high as last year, when turkeys in many instances sold for thirty cents a pound.

MOODY UPHOLDS THE CHAIRMAN

Attorney General States That Garfield Did Not Promise Immunity To Packers.

MEN ARE NOT FORCED TO TESTIFY

Witnesses Before The Commissioner Declined To Give Information Unless Given Immunity And It Was Not Allowed.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Emphatic denial of every allegation made by the indicted packers in their pleas in bar based upon the investigation of James R. Garfield, commissioner of corporations, will form an important part of the answer which will be filed by the government in the court at Chicago early next week. Attorney General Moody gave out a statement Thursday which, as he said, would give the public that accurate information to which it is entitled.

He declared that none of the eight pleas was of sufficient force to balk the government in its determination to prosecute the beef men now under indictment. Ten pleas have been filed, eight of them being based upon the alleged conduct of Mr. Garfield. After reciting the resolution under which the commissioner made his investigation and the substance of the pleas to which he refers, the attorney general enters into his wholesale denial.

Compulsion Was Not Used.

"The government denies in point of fact," he says, "that Mr. Garfield did compel the several defendants to attend and testify and produce documents before him, or that he did subpoena any of the defendants to appear before him and testify or produce documentary evidence, or that he waived the oath which he was authorized to require of them, or that he promised them any immunity whatever in the premises, or that any evidence obtained from the defendants was delivered to or used by the department of justice or the district attorney before the grand jury which found the indictment.

Packers Sought Immunity.

"The attorney general further says that he is informed by Mr. Garfield and believes that at certain stages of the investigation the defendants declined to give information unless they were put in a position to obtain the immunity provided by the act of Congress and required by the Constitution of the United State, and that when such instances occurred, acting after conference with the attorney general, Mr. Garfield refrained from pursuing the inquiry further and made no other attempt to obtain information, documentary or otherwise, along these lines."

May Prosecute Criminally.

It is denied, as charged in another plea, that the government obtained any papers of the defendants for use before the grand jury otherwise than by the orderly process of a subpoena. It is also denied that the injunction proceedings against the so-called "beef trust" constitute any bar to criminal prosecution. It is added that the answer already prepared by Mr. Pagin under the direction of the attorney general raises a mixed issue of law and fact.

SEES A FUTURE TIMBER FAMINE

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL WRITES OF FOREST DESTRUCTION.

HE PRESCRIBES A REMEDY

Suggests That "Waste Land" Be Planted with Trees and Cultivated as a Crop.

In the old days wood was burned by the engines of the Galena and Chicago Union Railroad, the parent company of the present Chicago & Northwestern system. At one of the annual meetings of this parent company, President Van Nortwick announced to the stockholders that he had bought a certain woodland at Elgin, Ill.,—now little more than a suburb of Chicago—and that he felt like congratulating the company that this wood tract would forever secure sufficient fuel for the company's locomotives. Some years after, when the Chicago and Northwestern was perfected, one of the officers was called to President Van Nortwick's statement. This officer made a rapid computation, which showed that the Elgin woodland would not furnish kindling wood enough for the road's locomotives for even a single year, which suggests the fact that the annual consumption of railroad ties alone in the United States is 120,000,000, or fully one-sixth of the total cut of timber. In addition to this there are vast drains upon the forest for telegraph and telephone poles and for cross arms, and for timbers for railroad construction. At the present rate of forest destruction, the United States within forty years will be absolutely denuded of mercantile timber.

Maude Adams a Tree Planter.

Maude Adams is credited by the daily press with a deeper insight into the needs of the future than the railroad presidents, for she is stated to have planted upon her Long Island property a hundred thousand locust trees which will make the very best and lasting telegraph poles and railroad ties. The suggestion is made that the railroads plant tie and pole timber along their thousands of miles of right of way which would furnish an inexhaustible timber supply on the spot. The wisdom of planting rights of way to trees is questionable. In these days of fast trains nothing is more dangerous to those who must drive over railroad crossings than to have the view of the track obscured by trees. For a long distance on either side of every crossing the right of way should present a clear view.

As a matter of fact the railroads have given a good deal of consideration to timber supplies; the spectre of a timber famine is prominently before them, and it is a recognized apparition. Ten years ago only the soundest ties were accepted; seconds and thirds were promptly thrown out by the purchasing agents. Today these are all utilized. A few years ago red oak, black oak, beech, gums, pines and other soft woods were considered useless.

Charging Soft Woods with Creosote.

These woods are now being purchased in great quantities and treated with creosote and other preservatives for ties, poles and cross arms. Whole trains were loaded with sticks to be treated and bodily run into great retorts. Hot steam is admitted into the retort for several hours, and then a vacuum is drawn, the heat being kept above the boiling point. At the end of the vacuum, but without destroying the vacuum, the creosote from an elevated tank, is admitted into the retort until it is full. Pressure is then applied until the desired amount of creosote per cubic foot is forced into the wood. These retorts are movable and are hauled from place to place. This treatment, which quadruples the life of a soft wood tie, has opened up a supply which will meet the demand for some years. But a shortage is distinctly in sight and some broader plans must be undertaken. The only remedy is tree planting and forest management.

Experimental Tie Plantations.

Some six years ago tie plantations were started by a number of railroads. The more important of these are the Illinois Railroad plot at Harahan, La., where two hundred acres were planted in 1902; the various plantations of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad in Illinois, Alabama, Florida and Kentucky, and the various black locust plantations of the Pennsylanvia Railroad throughout the state of Pennsylvania.

Plantations so far have been devoted to the growth of catalpa and locust, but it is certain that as time goes on the work will be extended to include chestnut, red oak, European larch and similar woods which are rapid growers and yield good timber. Over a large area of the country chestnut grows well. The United States Forest Service is authority for the statement that a chestnut forest started from the seed can be cut over a number of times at intervals of from thirty-five to forty years; yielding, under good forest management, from 200 to 400 ties per acre at each cutting.

Some desultory tree planting was done by railroads as long as thirty years ago, but has demonstrated nothing other than in the Farlington Catalpa plantation in Kansas, which has been used for fence posts, to show an annual net profit per acre of $12.65 for the time the land has been occupied. This is exceedingly encouraging and suggests that thousands of tracts of unproductive land could be very profitably planted by their owners to catalpa, locust, chestnut, and other profitable woods. There is no section of the country to which some tree is not well adapted which is valuable for ties and poles.

A Great Object Lesson to Farmers.

It is very doubtful if any railroad will ever be able to plant trees in sufficient number to secure its entire supply of cross-ties; but the planting experiments made by the railroads will tend to stimulate land owners holding land along the right of way to plant their waste or unproductive lands with trees which will produce tie timber and thus furnish the railroad with a supply of ties in the future.

The annual tie consumption of the Pennsylvania Railroad alone is about 3,850,000 ties, to produce which about 12,000 acres must be cut.

In many cases the question of the production for the railroads will undoubtedly be solved by the proper management of existing tracts of forest land which the roads now own or may acquire rather than by an extensive scheme of forest planting.

The Forest Service several years ago began a study of the forest plantations which had been made in this country and as a result of this study a scheme of co-operation with land owners and others was devised whereby the Forest Service gives practical assistance and advice in establishing commercial plantations, shelter belts, wind-breaks, etc. This assistance is usually embodied in a planting plan, which enumerates the kinds of trees to be planted upon any given planting site, and gives instruction for the preparation of the ground and for the spacing and setting of young trees. Advantage has been taken of the assistance offered and hundreds of planting plans have been made for farmers, who have planted wood lots, shelter-belts, and wind-breaks, with success in accordance with the directions furnished by the Forest Service.

Millions of Plantable Acres.

There are millions of acres in the United States today in private ownership which are not adapted to farming, but which would pay a handsome return on the investment if planted to trees and systematically cared for as a forest plantation. When the trees have once reached a period of growth which gives them a marketable value, intelligent management, cutting each year only a portion of the timber and allowing for reforestation, would make such forest plantations a source of revenue as long as the country continues to be inhabited by men.

The whole forest problem is a big one. The idea that a forest is to be cut over clean and then abandoned is nothing short of ridiculous from a national business standpoint. If we would begin as a nation today to plant a tree in every place where we cut one down and to replant forests that have already been destroyed and abandoned we would not need to fear a timber famine in the future or the drying up of our rivers and streams and the loss of the water power they supply.

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL.

RULERS OF THE WORLD.

Meat Eating Nations Are the Leaders in Every Branch of Human Achievements.

The ruling nations of the world are meat eaters and history records that they always have been.

Vegetarians and food cranks may explain this in any way they choose, but the facts remain that the Americans, English, French, Russians and Germans are meat-eating nations, and they are also the most energetic and most progressive.

The principal food of the heroic Boer soldier, known as Biltong, is a sort of dried beef, affording a great deal of nourishment in a highly concentrated form.

The weak races of people are the rice-eating Chinese, Hindoos, and Siamese, regarded since the dawn of history as 'non-progressive,' superstitious and inferior physically and mentally to the meat-eating nations who dominate them.

The structure of the teeth plainly indicates that human beings should subsist upon a variety of food, meat, fruit and grains, and it is unhygienic to confine one's diet to any one of those classes to the exclusion of another.

Meat is the most concentrated and most easily digested of foods, but our manner of living is often so unnatural that the digestive organs refuse to properly digest meat, eggs and similar nutritious and wholesome food, but it is not because such food is unwholesome, but the real reason is that the stomach lacks, from disease or weakness, some necessary digestive element; hence arising indigestion and, later on, chronic dyspepsia.

Nervous people should eat plenty of meat, convalescents should make meat the principal food, hard-working people have to do so, and brain-workers and office men should eat, not so much meat, but at least once a day, and to insure its perfect digestion one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets should be taken after each meal, because they supply the peptones, diastase and fruit acids, lacking in every case of stomach trouble.

Nervous dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, gastritis, sour stomach, gas and acidity are only different names for indigestion, the failure to digest wholesome food, and the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cures them all because, by affording perfect digestion, the stomach has a chance to rest and recover its natural tone and vigor.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the real household medicine; it is as safe and pleasant for the stomach ache of the baby as it is for the imperfect digestion of its grand sire.

They are not a cathartic, but a digestive, and no pill habit can ever follow their use; the only habit Stuart's Tablets induce is the habit of good digestion and consequently good health.

WISCONSIN CROPS AS NAMED IN REPORTS

Corn of High Quality and Potatoes Are Good and Held for High Prices.

A situation is described in the November Wisconsin farm crop report, issued yesterday by Secretary John M. True of the state board of agriculture, that shows that the farmers of Wisconsin have been fortunate in the season of 1905. Their corn was of high quality and was harvested in good condition, they had planted a large acreage and the price is high. They secured generous diggings of potatoes, and with the failures of the potato crop in other potato states, Wisconsin farmers are holding their tubers for assured higher prices than the already steep figures. The November report is as follows:

"We estimate the yield of corn per acre in the southern division of the state at 45 bushels of shelled grain per acre; in the central division at 37 bushels per acre. The quality of the crop is high, it being placed at 95—100 representing the No. 1.

"The yield per acre of potatoes in the southern division is placed at 60 bushels, and in the remainder of the state at 70 bushels. The quality of the product is fair, being rated at 80 on a scale of 100.

"For the whole state we estimate the yield of corn per acre at 42 bushels, and potatoes at 65 bushels.

"Other yields are reported as follows: Sugar beets, 12½ tons per acre; buckwheat, 17 bushels; beans, 12 bushels, and clover seed, 1½ bushels.

"The average farm prices of crops are estimated to be as follows: Wheat, 78c per bushel; rye, 60c; barley, 43c; oats, 25c; buckwheat, 55c; clover seed, $7; beans, $1.75; potatoes, 57c; tobacco, 10½c per pound; sugar beets, $4.79 per ton; tame hay, $7.25 per ton; corn, 42c per bushel.

"In a large portion of the state, especially in the southern division, there is no surplus potato crop, but on the other hand a deficiency for home consumption. In the potato-growing districts it is estimated that not more than one-third of the crop has yet been marketed, the balance being stored for higher prices, which will doubtless be realized.

"Less than the usual amount of fall plowing has been done, and a large proportion of shocked corn is not yet husked."

HOGS AFFLICTED WITH TUBERCULOSIS

Alarming Conditions That Have Been Discovered Among Herds of Swine in the State.

Tuberculosis among hogs, only recently found to any large extent, is increasing so rapidly in Wisconsin that an effort will be made to have the next legislature takes steps toward stamping it out. The only inspection provided now is the regular meat inspection of the United States government. State Senator George Wylie, of the state board agriculture and member of the Wisconsin Live-stock Sanitary board, is authority for these statements. The livestock sanitary board, which was granted enlarged powers by the last legislature, is doing great work in stamping out tuberculosis among cattle, Senator Wylie says.

Senator Wylie was in Milwaukee Monday superintending the inspection of a herd of twenty-nine tubercular cattle shipped there from Neenah. At the slaughter-house of the Gross Packing plant, where inspection was conducted, twenty-two of the animals were killed and only seven passed inspection.

Cause for Alarm

"While it has been known for some time that hogs were likely to have tuberculosis and tubercular hogs have been found, yet it is only since the last legislature adjourned that tuberculosis among hogs in Wisconsin has given any great cause for alarm," said Senator Wylie.

"It has been found that many hogs shipped from dairy districts of the state were tubercular. This I have learned from the government inspectors at Eau Claire, Milwaukee, Chicago and other market points.

"This shows that the tuberculosis in cattle is capable of transmission. In these districts the hogs are raised largely on skimmed milk from the creameries. The tuberculosis in the hog is chiefly found in the intestines and in the glands of the neck.

"Something should be done to stop this if possible. The theory of course is that it is capable of transmission to the human system. A law would be acceptable which would compel all creameries to heat all their skimmed milk and whey to a temperature of at least 140 degrees. This would kill the tubercular germs. Of course, to make it complete it would be necessary to require all farmers feeding milk to hogs to heat it in the same way. While some might violate the law, yet it would prevent a great amount of the tuberculosis."

EAGLES DEDICATED NEW LODGE ROOMS

In the Carle Block with an Initiation and Banquet Last Evening.

Last evening the Fraternal Order of Eagles dedicated their new hall in the Carle block with an initiation and banquet. Nearly all of the 130 members of the local Aerie were present and the festivities continued until one o'clock this morning. Rehfeld's full orchestra played throughout the evening. The rooms are those formerly leased by the local Masonic order. They are admirably adapted to the purposes for which they are to be used. The order of Eagles was organized here a year ago last March and is one of the most active and flourishing lodges in the city.

News for the Railroad Men.

Northwestern Road.

Engineer J. O. Selleck is laying off and engineer M. A. Crowley is relieving him.

The Barrington turn around was run today. Conductor Sage was in charge and his brakemen were Ed. Clifford and J. Erdman.

Engineer Seidmore is off duty. His place is being taken by engineer Wilcox.

A freight car was derailed last night at the pumping "post" on the transfer track and hauled to the switch where the hospital track joins it before being put back on the tracks. The ties were somewhat cut up the entire distance and one rail on the hospital track torn up.

Engineer Erdman is taking a lay off, being relieved by engineer C. B. Smith.

In connection with its inquiry as to the propriety of increasing the minimum percentage of air-brakes to be used in freight trains, the Interstate Commerce Commission has had reports made by the railroad companies showing how many of their cars are air-braked and how well the freight trains of the past six months have been air-braked; and, the data thus gathered are shown in a pamphlet just issued. The North Western road is credited with owning 52,489, of which number 47,530 are equipped with air-brakes. The percentage of owned cars equipped is 90.55 and the average percentage, in each freight train, of brakes being in use for the six months ending September 1, 1905, is 93.5. The St. Paul road owns 42,176 of which number 35,845 are equipped with air-brakes. 84.99 per cent of owned cars have air-brakes and 77. per cent in each freight train, run during the six months previous to September 1, 1905 were equipped with the brakes in use.

General News.

The yard masters at various points on the Pennsylvania Railroad have had their working day reduced from 12 hours to 8.

The Illinois, Iowa and Minnesota road, projectors of which are identified with the Milwaukee Southern railroad, will establish through freight service Nov. 20 between Rockford and Momence, Ill., a stretch of 126 miles. In addition to the Milwaukee line an extension to Fort Wayne, Ind., which would give Chicago and adjacent cities an outer belt railroad is, is proposed.

A correspondent of the New York Herald says that very large quantities of freight are seriously delayed at the Atlantic terminus of the Panama Railroad because of the inability of the road to carry it. It is said that 800 cars are needed for the traffic, while the company has available only 200. More than half of the 500 cars owned by the road are now in use for carrying supplies for the construction forces of the canal.

WAREHOUSE WILL BE COMPLETED SHORTLY

New Building of Hough Porch Shade Company Will Be Ready for Use Next Week.

Building operations at the plant of the Hough Porch Shade company have proceeded rapidly in the past month and the new warehouse will be ready for use next week. The additional floor space gained in this building will relieve the congestion in other parts of the factory and the winter's rush will not be delayed by the overcrowding of any department. The new warehouse is 44x60, one story high with a basement. The foundation is of stone, the walls of brick and the roof of pariod. The brickwork is finished and the roof is now being constructed. The structure has been erected under contract by the firm of Blair and Summers, William H. Blair superintending the building. The complete cost is about $2,500.

LOOKING FOR UNCLE NAMED JOHN POSTE

Twelve-Year-Old Chicago Boy is Here Searching for Relative to Tell Him Mother Is Very Ill.

Twelve-year-old Johnny Whiting of Chicago is here in search of an uncle named John Poste, to whom he wishes to convey the tidings that the latter's sister and the boy's mother, Mrs. Frank Whiting, is dangerously ill at her home, corner of Wabash and Ashland avenue. The young man arrived yesterday afternoon and visited twenty different homes in search of information, but was unsuccessful in his quest. He was assisted in his errand by the police officers. A first ward family took the boy in and gave him his meals and a bed, as he had very little money.

A Doctor's Tribute

To the Editor of the Daily Disparch:

Sir:—The Rev. W. S. Swayne, in his paper on Christian Science, is reported to have said,—

"The failures of Christian Science are numerous and disastrous. It is responsible for failures which might have been treated with success by a doctor."

I would like to call attention to the recognized fact that in medical practice there are failures, and that we have been accustomed to quietly accept such as inevitable. In fact, it is believed that certain diseases are from the outset bound to prove fatal. Is it such a matter of surprise, then, that Christian Scientists are not successful in every case? There have been four thousand years of medicine and about forty of Christian Science.

However, my own exxperience on these points is decidedly in favor of Christian Science as against medicine, and I write as a man who for nearly thirteen years was a general medical practitioner. Under the very best that medicine and surgery had to offer, my daughter, suffering from tubercular disease (joints and lungs), was slowly and steadily dying five years ago, losing weight and strength daily, and it is due to nothing else than Christian Science that I am able to say she lives today a healthy, strong girl. This case would have been a failure under medicine, but has proved a success under Christian Science.

Again, under medicine a patient of mine was certainly, and in much suffering, going down to her grave, with valvular disease of the heart, and complications. This case also—a would-have-been failure in medicine—became a complete success under Christian Science. Surgery had nothing better to offer a young man, who had disease of the bones of the knee joint, than excision of the diseased bones and joint; thereafter, at best, a stiff shortened limb. Naturally we would have accepted this measure of success as a very good thing. Yet under Christian Science treatment this man retains the whole joint in a perfect, healthy, and active condition.

When I first put Christian Science to the test with these cases I was not a believer, and knew practically nothing about it. I thought much as other medical men, until the proofs of the superiority of Christian Science healing convinced me.

The conclusion at which Mr. Swayne arrives, that "Christian Science leaves no room for works of mercy, spiritual or bodily, no reason to feed the hungry or tend the sick, dying, and outcast," is one with which I totally disagree, and I think the foregoing cases justify the position I take in thinking that Christian Science "does feed the hungry, tend the sick, dying, and outcast." Surely those who are left without hope of relief from material means can be classified in this category, and these Christian Science is relieving today.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Friday, November 17.—A Dastardly Outrage.—Not long since, a Mr. Driscoll, whose employment was that of a drayman, died, and soon after his wife died, leaving a daughter about seventeen years of age to care for two smaller children. Since the decease of her parents the eldest girl has lived quietly in the Third ward, discharging the duties of her position faithfully, and molesting no one. A few days since she had occasion to leave home, taking the children with her, and did not return until evening. Upon entering the house she saw something on the table which resembled a corpse with a sheet thrown over it. At first the frightened girl started to run away, but finally she mustered courage and went into examine the object of her alarm. She then discovered that some dastardly coward has entered the house in her absence, opened a trunk where her father's clothes were kept, taking them out, and having stuffed them, laid them on the table to represent a dead person, and having covered them with a sheet, left them to frighten a defenseless girl. A person who would be guilty of such an act wouldn't hesitate to steal if he had the ghost of a chance. Such unfeeling meanness is worthy of an unmitigated scamp only, and was probably the work of one.

City Items.—The Baptist Society is fitting up Hyatt House hall to hold religious services in, and will have it in complete order by next Sabbath. It will be one of the neatest and most comfortable rooms for worship in the city, and is more capacious than the old church. We hope they will not feel so comfortable in their new quarters as to deem the erection of a new church edifice unnecessary.

We understand that the Gazette was honored last night with a notice by the phrenological and physiological lecturer now in the city and giving a series of lectures at Lappin's Hall, who said that although we had been invited to attend his lectures we had never done so, nor had we even made allusion to them, but remarked that we could make a paragraph about an old cow with a tin pail tied to its tail. Perhaps the gentleman has forgotten that it is the duty of a journalist to make mention of the most important matters transpiring in a community! But joking aside, we understand that Dr. Borrows is an able and interesting speaker and imparts a great deal of useful and valuable information. His audiences have been steadily growing since the first night he spoke. He remains until Monday night.

..COMING ATTRACTIONS..

The first fight films ever shown in America—of any size or actual pretentions—represented a bout between Young Griffo, the once-famous Australian, and Walter Campbell of Philadelphia. Oddly enough, these films were handled in the west by Lou M. Houseman, now handling the Britt-Nelson pictures. These were blurred, indistinct at intervals, and crisscrossed with flashes of light and heavy shadows, making them hard to see and harder upon the eyes. People who saw these old pictures—which were exhibited in 1896—and who have seen the Britt-Nelson films have much to say concerning the marvelous progress in this branch of photography. Every defect in the older pictures is missing from the new, while the Britt-Nelson pictures have a clearness and beauty which was not deemed obtainable in the past. It was generally believed, at the time the Griffo-Campbell films came out, that the science of moving pictures would always remain more or less in its infancy, and that it would never be wholly possible to do away with blurs and flashes. The Britt-Nelson pictures are a revelation, and show that science conquers every obstacle.

J. W. Coffroth, president of the Colma (Cal.) Athletic Club, where the fight occured, is the owner of the copyrighted films, and Lou M. Houseman, the Chicago sporting writer, has acquired the exclusive right to the pictures in the middle west. The above pictures will be seen at the Myers Grand Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 20 and 21. Matinee daily at 2:30.

"Uncle Si Haskins" was the attraction at the Oliver theatre last evening and played to a big house. The play has a good plot and every member in the cast are up in their line. The snow scene in the third act is one of the prettiest and most elaborate scenes ever produced. Several specialties were introduced and too much can not be said of the entire company. "Uncle Si" will hold the boards again this afternoon and tonight and should do a big business.—Lincoln (Neb.) Daily Journal, January 20, 1905. Will appear at the Myers Grand Saturday, November 18th, matinee and night. Matinee at 2:30.

Labor Notes

It is officially announced that every telegrapher on the Burlington System will receive an advance of $10.00 per month. Dispatches will be advanced to an amount not yet stated.

In the New South Wales Assembly recently, the Premier was asked if he would introduce a provision into the Amending Old Age Pensions Act, providing that drovers, shearers, and all other except seamen, who were at present provided for, of twenty-five years' residence in the State, should be eligible for a pension, even if they were absent from the State for an aggregate of two years during that period.

Panama mechanics and laborers pay $86.00 per month for board on the Isthmus.

A novel death benefit plan has been agreed upon by a Pennsylvania Coal firm, and their employers. The company agrees to pay to the family of each man killed or dying from accident in the mines $50 and at the same time to add to the fund $1 from the wages of each miner and 50 cents from the wages of each laborer.

At a meeting of the executive board of the Glass Bottle Blowers' Association, it was agreed to re-affirm the wage scale which was agreed to last year in Pittsburg.

Suit has been begun in the Supreme Court by Andrew J. Fulton of Brooklyn against the William Diamond Co. to recover $21.00 damages for an alleged breach of contract under which the plaintiff says he was to receive two dollars per head for each Italian laborer he should induce to go with his family to the Hawaiian Islands to work there on sugar plantations.

Letter to Mr. A. S. Fisher Janesville, Wis.

Dear Sir: It's the same everywhere; can't guess little enough.

Mr. C. O. Brown, Columbia, S. C., employed an experienced painter to paint his house. The painter on seeing the quantity sent to the house—Devoe—said there wasn't enough. There were ten gallons left, when the job was done.

It's the common experience.

Yours truly

OLD PEOPLE CONSTANT SUFFERERS IN WINTER

Most old people are great sufferers in Winter. They are seldom free from pains or ailments of some description, because they are not as able to withstand the severity of the climate, with its damp, changing weather, as are their younger, more vigorous companions. Cold weather starts the old aches and pains; they suffer with chilly sensations, cold extremities, poor appetite and digestion, nervousness, sleeplessness and other afflictions peculiar to old age. With advancing years the strength and vitality of the system begin to decline. The heart action is weak and irregular, the blood becomes thin and sluggish in its circulation, and often some old blood taint that has lain dormant in the system for years begins to manifest itself. A wart or pimple becomes a troublesome sore or ulcer, skin diseases break out, or the slight rheumatic pains felt in younger days now cause sleepless nights and hours of agony. There is no reason why old age should not be healthy and free from disease if the blood is kept pure and the system strong, and this can be done with S. S. S. It is a medicine that is especially adapted to old people, because it is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, selected for their purifying, healing and building-up properties, and is very mild and gentle in its action. S. S. S. warms and reinvigorates the sluggish blood so that it moves with more rapidity, and clears it of all impurities and poisons. As this rich, healthy stream circulates through the body every part of the system is built up, the appetite and digestion improve, the heart action increases and the diseases and discomforts of old age pass away. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, and all troubles arising from diseased blood.

WEATHER FORECAST

Fair and cooler.

"A lion is known by his paw" —seeing only its paw you could not be persuaded that it was a coyote or jack-rabbit. A store is known by its ads. A man who has never been in this city would be able to identify, unerringly, the enterprising and important stores simply from looking over the ads in this newspaper. : : : : : :

Where is the man with the goose bone to tell how cold the winter is to be?

Some of those political bosses have not yet waked up to the realization that there was an election last week.

Mayor Dunne is starting on a new track. Now he believes in restoring the little rubber stamps to O. K. Bobby.

The American residents of the Isle of Pines probably know by this time that they are up against the real article.

Between the corn shredders and deer hunters the month of November death reports promise to equal a Fourth of July or a South American revolution record.

Isaac Stephenson of Marinette recently celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of his coming to Wisconsin. Good for Mr. Stephenson; may he live many years to come. He is typical of Wisconsin and an honor to the state.

That plan of John Farson to have all automobile owners in Chicago supplied with a little card that would do as a bail bond if arrested might be a hint to the Burglar's club to follow.

Tomorrow all eyes will be turned on Michigan where the sturdy sons of Wisconsin are to fight for the football championship of the two states. Wisconsin is of course rooting for the Badgers while Michigan takes a personal pride in Mr. Yost and his players.

THAT NEW YORK VOTE

Despite the fact that election officials of New York have announced that George McClellan was elected at the recent municipal election, William Randolph Hearst is contesting that election by every known means to man. He may perhaps catch a few of the small election grafters, but the "big bugs" will escape. Tammany leaders are too smart to do the dirty work themselves. They can hire for a few dollars, thousands of men who would steal election booth and all if necessary. Hearst will establish that New York elections are rotten, but he will fail in his ultimate purpose of landing in the Mayor's chair.

RUSSIA'S POSITION.

Russia is not in an enviable position. France passed through its revolution and its commune, but in Russia situations are even more alarming than they were in France. The French are a fiery race, full of life and vitality. The Russians are more dogged. The home of nihilism and revolutionists who have been long punished and suppressed, they are now breaking out with redoubled fury. The few sops the Czar can throw to these hungry wolves will be quickly devoured and they will again snap and snarl at his door for more. Russia aroused, is frightful to behold. Russia dormant, is pitiful. The great throne of the Romanoffs seems to be tottering. The Czar Nicholas, too long under evil councils, has lost the love and respect of his subjects. To them he is the mere representation of the power that has starved and beaten them for centuries. What the end will be, can hardly be realized at present.

GOVERNOR JIM.

James Davidson is not Governor and present prospects do not say when he will be. Reports have the Governor resigning and going to Washington immediately, and others state positively that he will not resign until next spring. Conjecture, mere conjecture, has filled the minds of the state machine politicians with wonderment and doubt. Davidson appears to be gaining strength while the candidacy of Lenroot is now conceded to be a lost battle. A faux pas, by the leader. McGillivray still poses as the people's friend and wants that gubernatorial lightning to hit his rod the worst way. Meanwhile Governor "Jim" waits and waits. He is losing good deer shooting, good duck shooting and the uncertainty about who will pay his coal bills is awful. Some day he will know, but just now he is in doubt.

NOT IN ONE DAY.

Rome was not built in one day. Neither will Janesville become a great city in a day, a week, a month or a year. It takes time to erect great buildings and start big enterprises. By the establishment of the Janesville Advancement association, a step was taken in the right path and the yeast is working. Some day Janesville will blossom out into a full-fledged industrial center, but the growth apparently so slow, now will be remarkable when looked back upon. Janesville has the ideal location for being a trade and shipping center. Railways, climate and natural conditions all point to the city becoming large and prosperous, but it needs the hearty co-operation of every citizen to accomplish these things. Do not be disappointed then if you do not wake up tomorrow and see the interurban to Madison or hear the seven o'clock whistle of that half million dollar factory you so long to hear, is running. Janesville is all right and it should be everyone's idea and aim to make the outside public believe it. Like the tramp who eyed the dog for some minutes and then solemnly said: "You say the dog won't bite. I know the dog won't bite. But does the dog know it?"

INSURANCE SCANDAL.

The continuation of the insurance investigation continues to furnish both amusement and interest to the general public. If there is one man more pleased than any other in the outcome of this investigation it is Thomas Lawson, who smiles and says "I told you so." The world hates the man who says that, but someway or other we are beginning to consider Lawson as perhaps in a class by himself. Young Mr. Hyde tells the examiners that he has made life insurance his life study and then proceeds to demonstrate how little his study has amounted to. Mr. Harriman takes the stand and refutes Mr. Hyde's statements and the papers wonder who has been lying now. So it goes on. Even Governor Odell and the peerless Chauncey Depew have been forced to take the stand and answer questions that were not pleasant. Gradually the people are beginning to realize just how the great companies are managed, and wonderment has succeeded anger at the mis-management that has been allowed to exist unchecked for years. What the results will be is yet a problem, but its effect upon the country as a whole will be far reaching.

BROKEN RIBS IN A FRIENDLY WRESTLE

Howard Baack Comes Home From Beloit Academy Suffering with Painful Injury,

Howard Baack came home from Beloit, where he is a student at the Academy, this morning with a fractured rib. The injury was sustained in a friendly wrestling match Wednesday and not being extremely painful Mr. Baack believed that he would be able to keep up his studies. However, he found it necessary to leave his work and will be at his home here for some time.

NEWS OF THE STATE IN BRIEF.

Former Racine county Superintendent of Schools Pettijohn will be called upon by the county board of Racine and the district attorney to return $100 to the county and to give an itemized account of expenditures during the last six months of his office.

Department Commander Copeland of the G. A. R. has appointed Capt. Edward Cronon of La Crosse patriotic instructor in the schools for the department of Wisconsin. He is also, by virtue of the appointment, a member of the council of administration of the department.

George H. Johnston of St. Louis, Mo., has offered Racine a new opera-house with a seating capacity of 1,200 and to cost $60,000, on condition that the Business Men's association sells the seats on the first night at $10 each, making $12,000, the money to be turned over to him.

ATHOL ROLLINS NOW AT OXFORD FOR WORK

Former Janesville Teacher Is Heard from at Old English University.

Athol Rollins, the young man who a few years ago won a Rhodes scholarship while attending Lawrence university and was later a professor in the high school here, is now in England and has taken up his new work. The Oshkosh Northwestern of last Saturday says:

"Announcement has been received of the safe arrival of Athol Rollins, son of Rev. and Mrs. William Rollins of Green Bay, formerly of this place, at Oxford college, England, where he has gone to take a three years' course of study under a Rhodes scholarship. Mr. Rollins has been instructor of Greek and Latin in the Janesville high school this state, and will make a specialty of comparative philology while at Oxford. Mr. Rollins has gone to Oxford because he was able to secure one of two scholarships offered by the late Cecil Rhodes, the colossus of South Africa.

"The method of awarding the scholarship is planned to give the opportunity to the college graduate best fitted and most deserving of the honor. Each college in the state is allowed one representative, and the two who succeed in passing the examinations are then eligible to be judged by the committee of four college presidents appointed for that purpose. They judge on four qualifications—scholarship, counting 40 per cent; moral character, 20 per cent; athletic attainments, 20 per cent, and social qualities, 20 per cent. Mr. Rollins was attending Lawrence university at Appleton when awarded the scholarship. He expects to return to Wisconsin during the coming summer and spend his vacation visiting his parents at Green Bay and friends in this city. His father was for five years pastor of the Algoma street Methodist church, but asked for and received a transfer at the recent conference, going to Green Bay."

TWO ANNIVERSARIES WERE CELEBRATED

Thirtieth Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. J. Dower, and Mrs. Dower's Birthday Honored.

Twenty members of the O. E. Star gathered at the home of Conductor and Mrs. John Dower and completely surprised them last evening. The occasion was the thirtieth anniversary of their marriage; also the bride's natal day. A most cordial welcome was given and all made to feel at home. Six-handed euchre was the game of the evening and refreshments were served. Just before leaving Col. Kimberley on behalf of those present presented a silver salver to the couple and it was most highly appreciated. On departing all wished the genial host and hostess many more years of happiness. Mr. and Mrs. Dower returned this spring to their old home, 221 South main street, after an absence of six years.

MRS. SIDNEY RICHARDS VICTIM OF A SURPRISE

Mrs. Sidney Richards was surprised at her home three miles south of the city by eighteen Janesville women Tuesday. The trip down was made over the electric line in the afternoon and the return by the same way at night. Supper was served to the company and the affair proved most delightful.

WHAT IT COSTS TO RUN COUNTY

COMMITTEE ON FINANCES SUBMITTED ITS REPORT

ON THE NECESSARY LEVY

For the Ensuing Year, at the Closing Session of the Board of Supervisors Yesterday Afternoon.

Committee No. 4 of the county board, which consists of J. E. Egan, W. E. Shoemaker, and J. L. Bear, and which attends to all matters pertainining to finances, having under consideration of the amount of taxes necessary to be levied and having made an examination of the various resources and probable necessary expenses for the ensuing year made the following report yesterday afternoon.

State tax for educational purposes (common school income as provided for in section 2, chapter 313, laws of 1903.—$37,405.90.

Special charges on Rock county: for the state hospital—$1,813.48; for the Northern Hospital for the Insane—$155.84; for the Industrial School of Boys—$746.62; for the Wisconsin Home for the Feeble-Minded—$1,791.20; total—$4,507.14. Special charges on school districts, principal together with interest, are placed at $2,996.07 and the aggregate of state tax and special charges is $44,909.11.

There is also levied the sum of $34,296.08 county school tax to be apportioned and levied upon the taxable property of the several towns, villages and cities in the county in sums equal in amount to the school fund income apportioned to said towns, villages and cities by the state for the current year.

The report shows that $70,000 will be needed for general purposes, of which sum $10,000 is to pay the asylum bonds 121 to 140, inclusive, which will be due April 1, 1906, and also to pay $1,500 interest on said bonds, due April 1 and Oct. 1, 1906.

There is also levied on the taxable property of the county one-tenth of one mill tax, amounting to $4,700, for soldiers' relief purposes.

Taxable property of the county, with the exception of the cities of Janesville and Beloit, is levied upon for the sum of $2,000 for the compensation and allowances of the county superintendents of schools.

The school fund tax is in reality a state tax and is so regarded. Last year the county paid to the state $40,344.73 for educational purposes and received back from the state for the same purposes, on the basis of school population, $34,296.08. So that the difference of something over $6,000 represents what taxpayers actually had to turn over to the state for the general purposes of education. Under this system sparsely settled counties get back for the state for the support of their schools considerable more than they pay in, and the older sections where abundant educational opportunities and facilities exist have to share in the burden.

The county board decided not to issue bonds to secure money with which to pay for the addition to the courthouse. Instead the money will be paid out from the treasury and if, towards the end of the year, sufficient funds for general expense are not available, a few thousands may be borrowed.

"FLEEK'S WINDOW"

We have just received a shipment of our Japanese Goods direct from Japan.

These goods are very exclusive and not many of them are shown elsewhere. A few may be seen in our window this week.

There are some very fine objects of art, such as pounded brass, bronze vases, ivory and brass candle-sticks, tobacco jars, baskets and fancy china.

We are laying aside some of the choicest ones for customers for Christmas. It would be well to call and see them before the line is too much broken.

A JOKE FOR SMOKERS

Try It on Your Bald-Headed Friends and Have a Laugh.

If you smoke a cigar that burns with good solid ashes that will not fall off until the cigar is half smoked up, such a cigar as the Wadsworth Bros.' Chicos, sold by the Smith Drug Co., you can have a good joke on some bald-headed friend.

When there is an inch or two of ash on the end of the cigar just let it fall on that bald head and see how high it can jump. The ashes are not hot enough to burn, but they are warm enough to be felt.

The Chicos are a real ten-cent Havana filled cigar that the Smith Drug Co. sell for a nickel, and is the only 5c cigar where the ashes are firm and solid like those of expensive grades. You will enjoy a Chico anyway, so try one and see how good it is.

ANNUAL CAMPFIRE OF EDGERTON VETERANS

Held Wednesday Evening—Six Hundred Attended—J. F. Carle of Janesville, Spoke.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, Nov. 16.—The annual campfire of the local Grand Army post was held Wednesday evening and the event proved more enjoyable than any of previous years. Between five and seven-thirty a most delicious supper was served to nearly six hundred people who gathered despite the rainy night. During supper the mandolin orchestra played several selections. The program was opened at eight o'clock by an invocation by Rev. F. C. Richardson. Following which the quartet, composed of Messrs. Clarke and Roethe and Mesdames Clarke and Richardson, sang a number of selections. The solo by Mrs. Allan Skinner pleased very much, as did the whistling rendered by Phil Jones of Milton. Mrs. Gertrude McCarthy and Miss Marie Watson each gave readings which were heartily applauded. The address of the evening was given by Comrade J. F. Carle of Janesville and was highly appreciated by all present.

BADGER TEAM STARTS FOR GREAT CONTEST

Leaves Madison Amid the Cheers of the Students — Vanderboom Not to Play.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Nov. 17.—With 1,500 rooters to bid the team good luck, the band playing "Hot Time," and the chorus singing the varsity toast, the Wisconsin football squad left Madison yesterday afternoon for Ann Arbor. Capt. Vanderboom, with his arm in a plaster cast, accompanied the team. There was a look of disappointment on the captain's face as the train pulled out. He received the doctor's decision that he could not play against the Wolverines.

Despite Wisconsin's hard luck with its captain, confidence in the team seems to be unshaken. There is a general feeling that Wisconsin will win at Ann Arbor. It is not the kind of confidence that finds expression in boisterous demonstrations, but it is the genuine stuff. Every one says: "We will win." The players also are of the same opinion and are not backward in telling their friends to put their money on the team.

Coaches King and Holt are silent. The most dexterous questioning could elicit nothing from the little coach beyond a smile. In addition to Capt. Vanderboom being on the sidelines it also is probable that Brindley will play only a portion of the game. The injury to his knee has left him in bad shape, and Trainer Kraenzlein does not think he can last the entire game. Should this prove true Soulkup will go in at end. It has not been decided who will take Vanderboom's place, but the choice lies between Clark and Wrabetz.

It is many years since a Wisconsin team went into a game in as poor condition as the team that will play Yost's machine. Vanderboom has been thought to be a necessity in the back field to make the interference for Findlay's end runs. Without him in the game Wisconsin's chances of success are greatly diminished. The news that Vanderboom would not play has put a stop practically to all betting, 2 to 1 being passed up on all sides. It is doubtful whether the Badgers would cover the Michigan money at any odds.

Graduate Manager Downer, Trainer Kraenzlein, and Coaches King and Holt accompanied the team. The university glee club also went on the trip. This evening an excursion of 500 rooters will leave for Ann Arbor. At Chicago they will be joined by a delegation of 200 from Milwaukee and other parts of the state.

FASHION NOTES

Evening Bodices.

Lace, draped most seductively about the front and shoulders is used to accentuate the beauty of evening bodices. Time was when the decollette bodice, which did not correspond with the skirt was considered entirely out of place, but that has all passed, and handsome lace and satin waists of delicate hue are worn with separate skirts in darker colors with the highest approbation of Dame Fashion.

This vogue is responsible for a new allotment of guimpes and yokes, to say nothing of Marie Antoinettes, Eugenies and charming fischus of less pretentious nomenclature. An original bodice design has the shoulders draped in epeulette effect with point lace, the lace having a heading of embroidered chiffon ruching. A deep girdle of cerise velvet was accompanied by a rosette with long streamers and this rosette was placed in the center of the back of the bodice, allowing the ends to fall gracefully down the skirt.

Not all of the evening bodices are cut very decolette, however; many are simply hollowed out at the neck in round or square effect, being just low enough to expose the full lines of the throat, which is frequently encircled with a dog collar of pearls or other precious stones.

Speaking of jewels reminds us that there are now shown some very clever imitations of pink pearls which have hitherto stoutly withstood the wiles of the imitator. The collars, necklaces, etc., which are exhibited in some of the jewelry establishments are so nearly perfect in tint and coloring that it is difficult even for an expert to detect the difference.

Although many of the smartest turnovers and neck trimmings are wickedly expensive, this is not true of all dainty models. Expensive laces are used as freely as if they were mere baubles by some of the makers of women's toggery. They argue that being good material, the investment pays, but there are women whose dress allowance will not back up their acquiescence of the contention, so that they must needs resort to less costly designs.

Eyelet embroidery is a fashionable trimming, accomodating itself to a wide range of purses, and the heavy linen stocks trimmed with this handwork are as pretty as any models one could select. Of course in the sheerer, silker fabrics they are more expensive, but even then one nice turnover or stock of this pattern can be indulged in for the sake of a smart appearance.

Chemisettes of embroidered linen with cuffs to match are the acme of elegance. The area of the embroidery is becoming more limited, as in the winter bodices the necks are not cut quite so low as in the lingerie blouses, but the restriction in space is fully made up by the added elaborateness of the handwork upon the design. Stocks embroidered around the top and finished with a tie of silk drawn through embroidered rings at the front, are dainty and neat, nor is the plain ribbon bow to be omitted from the long list of fashionable neck trimmings. It is shown in more elaborate guise, however, having the edges of the ribbon used to hang down finished with tiny ruffles of lace or chiffon, sometimes both.

All sorts of devices are employed for fastening neckwear that is adjusted at the back, for when there is no lady's maid or helping hand near, there are few women who can arrange this detail of the toilette satisfactorily. Then the stock which requires pinning is always more quickly soiled. The makers of these novelties have, therefore, struck upon the plan of furnishing embroidered loops which are caught over decorative little buttons to effect the fastening of the neckpiece, and the idea is a good one.

Tailored linen stocks are in excellent taste for tailored shirt waists and the firms catering to this fad have turned out unusually smart designs.

CHAPTER XVIII.

THE dance at the Benton ranch was the great social event of the midsummer season. All day strange wagons—ludicrous, makeshift things—had been discharging loads of women and children at the ranch, tired mothers and their insistent offspring. To the women this strenuous relaxation came as manna in the wilderness. What was the dreary round of washing, ironing, baking and the chain of household tasks that must be done as primitively as in Genesis if only they might dance and forget? So the mothers came early and stayed late, and the primary sessions of the dances fulfilled all the functions of the latter day mothers' congresses. There were infant ailments to be discussed; there were the questions of food and of teething, of paregoric and of flannel bands, which, strange heresy, seemed to be "going out," according to the latest advices from those compendiums of all domestic information, the "woman's pages" of the daily papers.

Inasmuch as these more than punctual debaters must be cooked for, there was, to speak plainly, "feeling" on the part of the housekeeper at the Bentons'. Wasn't it enough for folks to come to a dance and get a good supper and go away like Christians when the thing was over instead of coming a day before it began and lingering on as if they had no home to go to? This at least was the housekeeper's point of view, a crochety one, be it said, not shared by the brothers Benton, whose hospitality was as genuine as it was primitive. To this same difficult lady the infants who were too tender in years to be separated from their mothers were as productive of anxiety as their elders. A room had been set apart for their especial accommodation, the floor of which, carefully spread with bed quilts and pillows, prevented any great damage from happening to the more tender of the guests, and they rolled and crooned and dug their small fists into each other's face while their mothers danced in the room beyond.

By nightfall the Benton ranch gleamed on the dark prairie like a constellation. Lights burned at every window; a broad beam issued from the door and threw a welcoming beacon across the darkness and silence of the night. The scraping of fiddles mingled with the rhythmic scuffle of feet and the slug-song of the words that the dancers sung as they whirled through the figures of the quadrille and lancers. About the walls of the room where the dancing was in progress stood a fringe of gallants, their heads newly oiled and proclaiming the fact in a bewildering variety of strong perfumes. Red silk neckerchiefs knotted with elaborate carelessness displayed to advantage bronzed throats; new overalls of the sluggiest species amply testified to the social importance of the Benton dance.

As yet the dancing was but intermittent and was engaged in chiefly by the mothers with large progeny, who felt that after the arrival of a greater number of guests and among them the unmarried girls their opportunities might not be as plentiful as at present. One or two cow punchers in an excess of civility at the presence of the fair had insisted on giving up their six shooters, mumbling something about "there being ladies present and a man being hasty at times." In the "bunk room," which did duty as a gentleman's cloak room, things were really warming up. There was much drinking of healths, as the brothers Benton had thoughtfully provided the wherewithal and that in excellent quality.

Costigan was there and Texas Tyler, who had ridden sixty miles to "swing a petticoat," or if there were not enough to go round to dance with a handkerchief tied to some fellow's sleeve. By "swinging a petticoat" it was perfectly understood among all his friends that he meant a chance to dance with Judith Rodney. Texas had been devoted to Judith since she had left the convent, and sometimes, perhaps twice a year, she told him that she valued his friendship. On all other occasions she rejected his suit, as if his continual pressing of it were something in the nature of an affront. Yet Texas persevered.

"Well, here's lukin' at you, since in the way of a friend there's nothing better to look at!" And Costigan drained a tin cup at Texas Tyler.

"Your very good health," said Texas, who was somewhat embarrassed by what was regarded as Costigan's "floweriness."

"Begorra, is that Hinderson or the ghost av the b'y?" Costigan's roving eye was arrested by the foreman of the XXX, who stood drinking with two or three men of his outfit. He was pale and ill looking. He drank several times in succession, as if he needed the stimulant, and without the formality of drinking to any one. The two or three XXX men who were with him seemed to be equally in need of restoratives.

They talked of the cattle stampede in which several of the outfits had been heavy losers. Some 900 head of cattle had been recovered, and members of the different outfits were still scouring the Red desert for strays.

Something in the nature of a sensation was created by the arrival of the Wetmore party. The women were frankly interested in the clothes, bearing and general deportment of the New Yorkers. Rumors of Miss Colebrooke's beauty were rife, and there was a general inclination to compare her with local belles. Such exotic types—they had seen these city beauties before—were as a rule too colorless for their appreciation. They liked faces that had "more go to them" was the verdict passed upon one famous beauty who had visited the Wetmores the year before. In arrangement of the hair, perhaps in matters of dress, the judges were willing to concede the laurels to city damsels, but there concession stopped. But evidently Kitty, to judge from the elaboration of her toilet, did not intend to be dismissed thus cursorily. She herself was delicately, palely pretty, as always, but her hair was tortured to a fashionable fluffiness, and the simplicity of her green muslin gown was only in the name. It was muslin disguised, elaborated, beribboned, lace trimmed till its identity was all but lost in the multitude of pretty complications.

"Did you know that old Ma'am Yellett had a schoolmarm up to her place?" asked one of the men apropos of eastern prettiness.

"Well, well," Costigan reminisced, "'tis some av thim Yillitt lambs thot's six fut in their stockings, if Oi be rimimbering right. Sure, the t'acher ought to be something av a pugilist, Oi'm thinkin'."

"I seen her the other day, and a neater little heifer never turned out to pasture. Lord, I'd like to be gnawing the corners of the primer right now if she was there to whale the ruler."

"Arrah," bayed Costigan, "but the women question is gittin' complicated ontoirely, wid Miss Rodney—an' herself lukin' loike a saint in a church window—d'alin' the mails an' the other wan t'achin' in the mountains. Sure, this place is gittin' to be but a sorry shpot for bachelors loike mesilf."

"I ain't mentionin' no names, but there's a man here ain't treatin' a mighty fine woman square and accordin' to the way she ought to be treated."

The information ran through the circle like an electric shock. Men stopped in the act of pledging each other's health to listen. Loungers straightened up; every topic was dropped. The man who had made the statement was the loose lipped busybody who had suggested to his host that he give up his six shooter since there were "ladies present."

"What are you waiting for?" queried Texas Tyler savagely. "You've cracked your whip, made your bow and got our attention. Why don't you go on?"

The man looked about nervously. He was rather alarmed at the interest he had excited. The next moment Peter Hamilton had walked into the room. There was something crucial in his entrance at this particular time. It crystallized suspicion. The gossip took advantage of the greetings to Hamilton to make his escape. Texas Tyler left the bunk room immediately and looked for him in the room with the dancers.

The fiddles in the hands of a couple of Mexicans had set the whole room whirling as if by magic. As they danced they sang, joining with the "caller out," who held his vociferous post between the rooms till the room was full of singing, dancing men and women, who spun and pirouetted as if they had not a care in the world. But Texas Tyler was not of these, as he looked through the dancers for his man. There was a red flash in the pupils of his eyes, and he told himself that he was going to do things the way they did them in Texas, for of course he knew that the loose lipped idiot had meant Judith Rodney and Peter Hamilton. Never before had such an idea occurred to him, and now that it had been presented to his mind's eye he wondered why he had been such a blind fool.

He rushed from the room and down to the stable. At sight of him some one leaped on a horse and rode out into the darkness.

"Who was that?" asked Texas of a man lounging by the corral.

"That was"— And he gave the name of the loose lipped man.

Texas cursed long and picturesquely. Then he went back to the bunk room and tried to pick a quarrel with Peter Hamilton, who good naturedly assumed that his old friend had been drinking and refused to take offense.

Peter went in to ask Kitty to dance with him. All that evening he had been waiting anxiously for Judith. Meanwhile he had used all his influence as a newly appointed member of the Wetmore outfit to soothe the ruffled feelings of the cattlemen. Of the tragedy in the valley he had heard no rumor.

Kitty had come to the point where she was inclined to permit Peter to resume his suit. His acquiescence in her refusal she had at first regarded as the turning of the worm. After the wolf hunt, however, her meditations were more disturbing. She had never told Peter of that strange woodland meeting with Judith, yet Judith's beauty, her probable hold over Peter, the degree of his affection for her were rankling questions in Kitty's consciousness. If the stress of these considerations Kitty lost her head completely for so old a campaigner. She drew the apron string tight—attempted force instead of strategy.

Faribault, Minn., Nov. 17.—Receiver Lyman D. Baird of the defunct First National bank has been authorized by the comptroller of the currency to accept the offer of the committee of stockholders of the bank to settle for $100,000. The First National bank of Faribault failed Jan. 3 last, when its doors were ordered closed by the comptroller of the currency and L. D. Baird was appointed receiver. Its liabilities were said to be between $500,000 and $600,000, with about $400,000 worth of assets, of which $300,000 were said to be practically valueless. Thomas B. Clement was president and on last Monday was sentenced to eight years in prison on twenty-four counts for having embezzled the funds of the bank and caused its failure. The bank had about 1,800 depositors.

KIDNEY TROUBLES

Increasing Among Women, But Sufferers Need Not Despair

THE BEST ADVICE IS FREE

Of all the diseases known, with which the female organism is afflicted, kidney disease is the most fatal, and statistics show that this disease is on the increase among women.

Mrs. Emma Sawyer.

Unless early and correct treatment is applied the patient seldom survives when once the disease is fastened upon her. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most efficient treatment for kidney troubles of women, and is the only medicine especially prepared for this purpose.

When a woman is troubled with pain or weight in loins, backache, frequent, painful or scalding urination, swelling of limbs or feet, swelling under the eyes, an uneasy, tired feeling in the region of the kidneys or notices a brick-dust sediment in the urine, she should lose no time in commencing treatment with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it may be the means of saving her life.

For proof, read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Sawyer.

"I cannot express the terrible suffering I had to endure. A derangement of the female organs developed nervous prostration and a serious kidney trouble. The doctor attended me for a year, but I kept getting worse, until I was unable to do anything, and I made up my mind I could not live. I finally decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a last resort, and I am to-day a well woman. I cannot praise it too highly, and I tell every suffering woman about my case." Mrs. Emma Sawyer, Conyers, Ga.

CHURCH STANDS FOR UNIONISM

Federation of Labor Listens to Address by Pastor From Chicago.

DELEGATE RAPS TAINTED COIN

Introduces Resolution to Have Local Entertainment Committee Reject Money Offered by Henry C. Frick, but Relents Later on.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 17.—Miss Mary E. McDowell, president of the Women's Trade Union League, and Miss Gertrude Barnum, secretary, both of Chicago, addressed the convention of the American Federation of Labor Thursday.

Both the women made an earnest plea for the adoption of a resolution presented by Thomas I. Kidd requesting that congress make an appropriation to be used to investigate the conditions existing among the women workers in the United States.

Miss McDowell said there were 2,000,000 women in this country who were compelled to make their own living. The union men at present were not as helpful to these women as they should be, she said, but as these female toilers had to work they must either be co-operators with the federation members or its competitors. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Speaks for the Church.

The Rev. Charles Stelze of Chicago, superintendent of the department of church and labor of the Presbyterian church in America, then addressed the convention, speaking of trade unionism and its relation to the church. He said:

"The organized church and organized labor stand for the same principles. If I thought the church did not stand for these principles I would abandon it immediately. Trade unionism has accomplished much for the people of this country, and, while I understand that unionism is responsible for a number of evils, its good deeds overshadow all the evil ones. The ministers of the church are not well enough acquainted with unionism and its principles, and I will say now that it will be my aim to teach the 8,000 preachers of the Presbyterian faith in this country more about the ethics of unionism in the next year."

Doesn't Want Frick Money.

Quite a flurry was started by the statement that H. C. Frick, the Pittsburg steel magnate, had contributed $100 to the entertainment fund raised by citizens of Pittsburg.

Delegate Johannessen of Chicago offered the following resolution:

"That this convention go on record with a strong protest against keeping money that is tainted. The memory of the Homestead martyrs is not forgotten, and their cries still ring in our ears. Send the money back to Mr. Frick. We do not want it."

Delegate Jahannessen was taken in charge by the local entertainment committee. He was told that Mr. Frick is one of the largest holders of real estate in Pittsburg, and one of the city's most important house builders; that he had agreed always to employ union men in the construction of his properties, and that he had been employing thousands of union men in the Pittsburg district in the last few years.

Chairman McKee of the local entertainment committee stated that Mr. Frick's money would be accepted gladly upon its receipt.

Delegate Mosser of London delivered an interesting address concerning labor conditions across the sea. He presented statistics showing that unionism was gaining many converts each year in the united kingdom. He said there were 1,166 trade unions, with a total membership of 1,902,318, and that these figures were steadily increasing. The British labor and trades council was the third wealthiest in the world, and last year a total of $22,753,000 was handled by trade unionists.

Jap Army Swells Idle List.

HONOR MEMORY OF PRESIDENT

Corner Stone of McKinley Monument Is Laid by Justice Day.

SIMPLE CEREMONIES ARE HELD

Trustees Decide to Postpone More Elaborate Display Until the Memorial Is Completed—Grand Army Band Furnishes Music.

Canton, O., Nov. 17.—The cornerstone of the McKinley monument, the gift of the people of the United States, was formally laid Thursday. Justice William R. Day, secretary of state and peace commissioner to Paris during the administration of President McKinley, presided, and Mrs. McKinley, the trustees of the McKinley National Memorial Association; distinguished guests and the school children of Canton were present.

Rev. O. W. Holmes, D. D., pastor of the First M. E. church, of which McKinley was a member and trustee, offered prayer. The Grand Army band played "America." A box containing records, newspapers and a list of the names of the trustees was put into a niche of the cornerstone by Frederic S. Hartzell, assistant secretary of the memorial association.

Justice Day Utters Praise.

In calling the assemblage to order Justice William R. Day said: "We are gathered to put in place the cornerstone of the memorial here to be erected in honor of the life and noble services of William McKinley. The generous contributions of more than 1,000,000 of his countrymen joined by those of distant lands across the sea assure the construction of this monument. We are here again to testify to our regard and love of his splendid character. The trustees have decided to postpone until the memorial is complete the more extensive ceremonies in his honor. The monument shall then stand here in bold proportions of strength and beauty to be known to all men. The exercises of to-day are, therefore, brief and simple."

The corner stone was then brought into position and formally placed by Justice Day. "Nearer, My God, to Thee" was played by the Grand Army band and the assemblage dispersed.

President's Widow Is Present.

During the ceremonies Mrs. McKinley sat on a platform prepared at the monument for her, her friends, the trustees and other noted guests. She was garbed in deep black and heavily veiled. The trustees present were:

Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks.

Postmaster General George B. Cortelyou.

Governor Myron T. Herrick, Cleveland.

Charles G. Dawes, Chicago.

Judge Horace H. Lurton, Memphis.

E. W. Bloomingdale, New York city.

Franklin Murphy, Newark, N. J.

R. J. Lowrey, Atlanta.

William McConway, Pittsburg.

John G. Milburn, New York.

William A. Lynch, Canton.

A. H. Revell, Chicago.

C. N. Bliss, New York.

Judge William R. Day, Canton.

Architect MacGonigle and wife of New York and General Contractor W. H. Harrison of New York and Granite Contractor G. W. Maltby of Buffalo, were also present. Other relatives and friends of Mrs. McKinley present were Mr. and Mrs. Duncan and Miss Helen McKinley and Miss Grace McKinley of Cleveland, sisters of the late president, and Mr. McWilliams and Miss Goodman, of Chicago.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES

The annual joint conference of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen is being held at Cleveland.

Blindfolded and under the whip a team driven by Oscar Kunitz and Henry Wolter of Appleton raced with a marsh fire that threatened to surround them on a narrow marsh road between Dundas and St. Johns, Outagamie county. The two men and horses were slightly burned.

The little village of Wilton, forty miles east of La Crosse, is greatly excited by the sudden deaths of Eric Cosgriff, proprietor of the Wilton hotel, and of his clerk within a few hours of each other. The cause of Cosgriff's death is unknown, while the clerk was poisoned by drinking wood alcohol. Whether there was any connection between the two deaths is unknown.

Daring Diver Is Impaled.

La Porte, Ind., Nov. 17.—W. L. Simmons, who left Knox several weeks ago with a carnival company and engaged to make high dives, met a terrible death in a small Tennessee town. He fell upon a stake, which pierced his body, causing death after he had suffered terrible agony.
